Changing your Skin from the Inside Out

The importance of SKINutrition

Why look ten years younger and not have the potential to live ten years longer?

It is easy to underestimate the nutritious boost which you can offer your skin by following a balanced eating plan with supplements.

A wealth of evidence strongly suggests that the food which we eat is one of the most powerful rejuvenation tools available. SKINutrition is more effective than surgery and many other non-surgical treatments. Such procedures might well rejuvenate skin on the surface but they do not change the physiology of the skin cells so as to optimize cellular health. This is the unique difference of our medically evidenced approach.

If you feed your mind, body and soul, you will see positive changes to your skin.

What really changes the face of your skin?

The skin contains a complex network of blood vessels which carry nutrients to support all body systems, whether delivering protective antioxidants or removing damaging toxins.

The quality of your blood and blood flow determines the rate at which the skin recovers from injury. For example, you may notice that the skin on the body often takes longer to heal than on the face and this is due to constricted blood flow.

What constricts blood flow?

Your blood health determines the rate at which your body will age. Poor blood health is detrimental but can be improved when the correct changes are applied.

To accelerate the rate at which you achieve better looking skin, you must first eliminate any inflammatory factors. If you do not take these important steps, you will experience a toxic overload resulting in premature ageing:

- Smoking
- Alcohol
- Caffeine
- Stress
- Underlying health problems such as heart disease, hypo thyroid and diabetes.

Prevention is always better than the cure!

Scars – Candela Frax Pro (FDA & EMA approved)

Bespoke body areas available, POA please speak to us.

The skin is an organ that protects our bodies from infection. Throughout our lives, we have experiences that injure our skin, leaving behind a scar. The formation of scars depends on many factors, including:

- How large the wound is
- The person's age, sex and ethnicity (nationality/heritage)
- Genetic (inherited) factors

There are four main types of scars. Various treatments can help reduce their size and appearance. Before you begin, however, remember this basic truth: scars will never completely disappear.

What are the four main types of scars?

Hypertrophic scars: These are red scars that rise above the skin. They do not spread beyond the spot where the injury occurred. Possible treatments include steroid injections and laser.

Keloids: These scars jut out from the skin and spread beyond the spot where the injury occurred. They are caused by the overproduction of certain cells. Over time, keloids affect mobility (ability to move). Possible treatments include surgery, laser surgery, radiation, or steroid injections. Smaller keloids can be removed with cryotherapy (freezing therapy using liquid nitrogen). You can also prevent keloids by using pressure treatment, silicone gel. Keloids are more common in darker skin types, specifically people of African or Asian descent.

Contracture scars: These scars typically occur after the skin is burned. They cause tightening (contracting) of the skin that can reduce the ability to move. This type of scar can go into muscles and nerves.

Acne scars: Any type of acne can leave behind scars. There are many types of acne scars, and they can be shallow or quite deep. Treatment depends on the type of scars.

Candela PDT Multiflex Platforms (FDA & EMA approved)

Permanent Hair Reduction

An innovative treatment for men and women that removes unwanted hair from almost anywhere on the body. Incorporating the latest IPL (intense pulsed light) technology, a flashlamp is guided via a glass prism to the hair. The pigments in the hair (melanin) absorb the light, converting it to heat and destroying the hair follicle making it unable to produce more hair.

Thread veins

You don't have to try to cover your thread veins anymore. Candela Ellipse uses short, safe bursts of light emitted from a flash-lamp to quickly remove those thin veins (technically called telangiectasias) from your face or legs.

A thread vein is a small blood vessel near the surface of the skin. The Candela Ellipse operator guides the visible light from the flash-lamp to the blood vessels needing treatment. The unique Candela Ellipse system carefully filters this light in two ways to ensure that only light with the correct characteristics (wavelengths) is allowed to reach your skin.

Blood contains haemoglobin that absorbs the light and converts it into heat. This heat destroys the protein in the wall of the thread vein. As a result the veins will, gradually and safely, disappear after treatment.

To ensure optimum light transmission to the blood vessel, a thin layer of gel (similar to that used in ultrasound examinations) is applied to your skin before treatment.

Which thread veins can be treated?

Thread veins on all parts of your body can be treated. The most common treatments are for superficial veins in the facial, chest or leg areas.

As the treatment relies on the absorption of light by the haemoglobin in the blood, the most effective results are seen with light skin. The lighter the skin, the more pronounced the contrast between the vessel and the skin, making treatment easier. However, Candela Ellipse has pre-programmed settings for different skin colours that deliver the correct energy output for your complexion.

How long does an Candela treatment take?

The glass prism within the Candela Ellipse applicator that guides the light to the skin is 10mm by 48mm, so several vessels can be targeted in one flash of light. The treatment time depends on the area to be treated. A single session typically lasts 10-20 minutes.

How many Candela treatments do I need?

The number of treatments depends on the body site and the severity of the thread vein or hair growth. Clinical studies have confirmed that six treatments are usually needed, and these are timed about one month apart.

How can I be sure Candela is safe and effective?

Clinical trials documenting Candela Ellipse's safety and effectiveness are carried out by leading doctors prior to the release of the product.

The results of these tests are then published in respected, refereed medical journals. You are welcome to view these scientific papers on the Candela Ellipse website at www.ellipse.org.

The settings used for your treatment will be based on the settings recommended by the clinicians who carried out the clinical trials.

Opatra synergy devices, face, eye, neck or Opatra dermasonic facial device (FDA approved)

Opatra London

In case you haven't heard already, here are just a few reasons why you should give our synergy device a try:

- Uses proven technology extensively researched by NASA.
- Combines LED light and heat therapy, a strong combination of treating and healing at the same time.
- Synergy uses LED light-emitting diode, infra-red light and unique technology that will give you immediate results with fine lines and wrinkles.
- With red and infra-red light, the light penetrates the skin more effectively than any cream.
- The LED light promotes production of cells, collagen fibres and elastin. By doing that it rejuvenates the skin.

The red light reduces the melanin or hormone level of the skin and reduces the appearance of age spots and dark spots, stimulates the fibroblasts that produce collagen, which helps the skin look younger.

The green LED light improves cell and oxygen utilisation. Green light targets dark circles, pigmentation, broken capillaries and sunspots. It also calms irritated or over-stimulated skin.

- Synergy Opatra treatment metal-head heats up to 41°C/106°F to provide topical heating that increases local blood flow, which provides protein and oxygen for better healing of the skin.
- With the application of Opatra's anti-ageing creams and serums, the red light helps penetrate the product into the deeper layers of the skin, whilst improving blood circulation, expression lines and regenerating cell connections.
